2007 CABERNET SAUVIGNON

WINEMAKER NOTES:

Deep ruby red-purple color. Unmistakable Larkmead aromatic profile of dusky cola, wild herbs, minerals and ripe dark fruit, with a complex, perfumed violet side note. The palate is immediately dark, rich and multi-layered with Larkmead menthol-mineral flavors, graphite, cedar and dusty cocoa powder notes. Concentrated dark fruit dominates as the palate expands but the wine remains lively, juicy and focused throughout. The tannins are long, youthful and satisfying and bring richness and length to the palate, which finishes with a whiff of pepper and aromatic thyme.

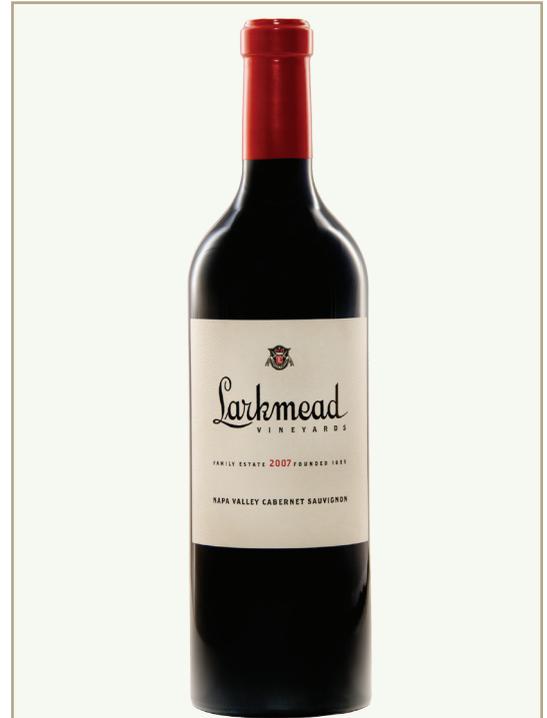

At this early pre-release stage, this wine contains all the elements to be our finest Estate Cabernet bottling to date. It is a quintessential upper Valley Cabernet in all respects, but has that added sprinkling of Larkmead magic that ensures it will stand head and shoulders above the crowd. And it is this vivid Larkmead signature that makes the wine so prolific - you can almost taste the rocky soil in the glass. Full of rich, dark cassis fruit and complex inner mouth aromatic notes, the wine currently shows an element of youthful reserve that ensures it will age gracefully for at least twelve years under optimum storage conditions (55F). Long time customers may recognize similarities to our 2002 Estate Cabernet, yet this new bottling has an added dimension of concentration without weight that characterizes the finest vintages.

Decant for an hour in its first couple of years and drink between release and 2020.

- ANDY SMITH, WINEMAKER

The 2007 Cabernet Sauvignon Estate is a great buy for a world-class Napa Cabernet Sauvignon. It exhibits a dense purple color, notes of charcoal, creme de cassis, graphite, and forest floor, and a ripe, opulently fruity, rich, full-bodied style. Its endearing silkiness, multi-dimensions, and mature, sweet tannins suggest it has two decades of life ahead of it..
